So sorry for her health problems and passing.

“ I am so happy that I had a chance to reconnect with this beautiful woman recently after many years. I have many memories of us as kids growing up together but the one that stands out for and one the one that I still share is that the pool at your house was always so much better than mine because you had the diving board. I wont ever forget the day that I finally passed the swim test and got to swim in the deep end! She gave me a few chances too and I knew it. I loved how your house always smelled of her perfume too and still remember it as if I was there. I just got to tell her that too and I'm so glad. I loved you all and feel lucky to have grown up around your beautiful MOM! I'm sorry for your loss.
